(Third Sunday of Month)

Last Sunday was Advent Sunday, and the Thursday before was both Thanksgiving Day and St. Andrew's day. In the Church School last Sunday the Advent Mite boxes were given out and the rewards for those who had been perfect in attendance the month before were given out. The reward this time was a beautiful picture of the Last Supper.

At the Morning Service there was an address by Mr. Dallas of Winnetka concerning the General Church Program. There was a short address by Mr. Brock after it, concerning the theme of Thanksgiving. The music was played last Sunday by Mrs. Louis Van Patten, and appropriate hymns for Advent, St. Andrew's Day and Thanksgiving were sung.

On Wednesday of this week it is planned to have at the meeting of the Ladies' Guild, a conference with the women by Mrs. Levering Negro of Glenwood. She is the educational director of this zone and will tell about the women's part of the General Church Program as outlined by the Recent General Convention.

On Saturday evening, at 8:00, there will be a meeting of the Ladies' Guild and the members of the Ladies' Guild to discuss some very important business concerning the Church.

The attention of the members of Church is called to the meeting of the citizens of Antioch next Sunday afternoon in the high school building concerning the Near East Relief. This is a most important work of charity and should be given our most careful attention and cooperation.

Next Sunday, the Services will all be as usual. Church School and instruction at 7:45 with practicing of the Christmas Carols. Morning Prayer and Address at 11:00 as usual. Mr. D. M. McTaggart will play the music at this service.

The season of Advent is one of expectation for the coming of the Messiah at Christmas. It is really a second Lent. During this season the people of the Church should pay particular attention to their religious duties, and strive to attend Church as much as possible. It is a blessed privilege to do the same. "I was glad when they said unto me, We will go into the house of the Lord."

RODOLPH VALENTINO AT CRYSTAL ON SATURDAY

The struggle of two strong wills for supremacy is the theme of "A Rogue's Romance" which will be shown at the Crystal Theater on Saturday, Dec. 9. One is represented by Earle Williams, who portrays a super "Raffles," in Monsieur Picard, a famous French thief. The other is portrayed by that favorite of the screen, Rodolph Valentino.

Valentino is cast as The Ferret, an Apache, dancer in a Parisian cafe. He represents the power of brute force and hand represents the cunning and craftiness of a polished crook, who does as much good as he does evil. He is the man who will support several orphans and turn aside from his path of crime to prevent an organized gang of grafters from robbing widows in a gigantic stock swindle.

These two distinct types of humanity meet in an underworld cafe in Paris. The gentleman is attracted to the Apache's dancing partner. He gives her money for the dance, which is immediately confiscated by the Ferret. The struggle of the girl brings Monsieur Picard to her side and from that moment the two become enemies.

The plot carries the spectator through the Parisian underworld, showing gay cafe scenes and the night life in taverns and hotels. In direct contrast to these scenes are those in the country and the life at the chateau and villas of the French elite.

Valentino does his famous Apache dance in the production.

"SUDS," GREATEST OF PICKFORD PICTURES

Mary Pickford, who has delighted so many millions as the glad girl in "Pollyanna", will be seen at the Majestic Theater on Sunday and Monday in a United Artists corporation production, "Suds," in a role said to be entirely different from anything in which she has heretofore appeared.

The story was adapted from the stage play "Op o' Me Thumb" in which Mando Adams appeared with such great success in Charles Frohman's Empire Theater in New York.

The story has to do with the affairs of Amanda Allick, a pug-nosed homely little slavey in a French laundry in the slums of the English city. Amanda is the most woebegone character imaginable and as the other girls in the laundry have their sweethearts, and no man has ever deigned to notice the little slavey, she weaves a wondrous romance for her own benefit and the benefit of the girls in the laundry, about the owner of a shirt which had been left to be washed some months before the story opens.

Amanda tells the girls that she is really of a very high station in life, but her father, the Arch-Duke, has sent her to work in the laundry to be paid for herself alone and not for her vast fortune. She informs the eager smith, the man whose name is on the laundry ticket accompanying the shirt, it will be a signal that all is well and she can return to her rightful station in life.

Finally a bank holiday comes along and all of the girls in the laundry are going to Hampstead Heath for a picnic, but Amanda says that she is waiting for "Oraco Green-Smith." Just at this moment Horace appears for his romance woven about him by the imagination of Amanda and in fact, has seen her but once before in his life to deposit his shirt.

How Amanda bluffs through the situation and saves her face before the spell-bound girls, must naturally be seen to be appreciated and enjoyed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and is Now Well ago, Illinois. "You surely gave me one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby, I was all run down and so nervous I kept me from gaining. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all healthy. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."—Mrs. ADRIAN TOMSHECK, 10557 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

There is nothing very strange about the doctor directing Mrs. Tomsheck to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There are many physicians who do recommend it and highly appreciate its value.

Women who are nervous, run down, and suffering from women's ailments should give this well-known root and herb medicine a trial. Mrs. Tomsheck's experience should guide you towards health.

Vigorous Rodent War Urged.

Damage by smaller rodents on stock ranges, while not so spectacular as that by wolves, mountain lions and coyotes, in some cases more than equals that of the predatory animals, according to Dr. A. K. Fisher of the United States biological survey. There should be closer co-operation, particularly in the matter of appropriations, between the federal and state governments, so that the largest amount available from both sources may be obtained, he says.

It is declared that if the prairie dog alone were exterminated 4,000,000 more cattle and 4,000,000 more sheep could be raised because of the increase in the amount of forage.

If You Need a Medicine

You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Contractor Has Gained 30 Lbs. on Tanlac

"Tanlac fixed me up so I gained thirty pounds. I have never seen or heard of such a wonderful medicine in all the sixty-six years of my life," declared William Magee, well-known retired contractor, 3840 Lafayette Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

"About two years ago I had a severe bladder trouble that left me in an awfully run-down condition. My appetite went back on me and my stomach got so weak I could not eat and digest enough to give me any strength. I also had the worst sort of pains across the small of my back, and could not sleep.

"I began picking up soon after I started taking Tanlac, and now I have a fine appetite, sleep like a log and that tired, worn-out feeling has all left me. I could not do otherwise than recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

MANY PROBLEMS IN TARIFF

Knotty Points Concerning Rates of Duty That Have to Be Dealt With Judiciously.

Cakes, folding pocket scissors, marble statuary, oriental rugs, pineapples in brine, and bibulous paper, all "blotters," are a few of the articles with which the Court of Customs Appeals will have to struggle this winter, according to the calendar of cases it has issued. The tariff gives rise to many highly technical questions that are calculated to make the most judicial mind dizzy, and which have a real significance in dollars and cents to some one. An example is the pending question whether wheat screenings are dutiable at 10 per cent as a nonenumerated manufactured article or are free as wheat. What will happen when shipments of 23,000 pounds of goats' beards, reported as passing through the Panama canal, reaches the customs there is no telling. Only those who go down to the sea in ships and make land at the customs house have an adequate idea of the oddities of international trade and the problems they present.—The Nation's Business.

NOW HAVE GOATS AS PETS

Greenwich Village Girls Claim They Find the Humble "Billies" Useful Companions.

The real thing in the Greenwich village studio now is the billy goat. Those who profess to know go so far as to state that the village girls, when they go out to show their smocks and bobbed hair, won't carry a Pekie or a Pom, but will lead a goat. Those who have them say they are easier to care for than a dog, the upkeep not being so heavy, due to a goat's digestion, and that they are kind and companionable.

There are other advantages, that of garbage disposal, even to cans, being one. Then again, the owner of a goat, particularly if the studio is small, will never be lonesome. A little observation from the Sixth or the Ninth avenue elevated train Fourteenth street on down will show that the goat is becoming more and more prevalent.—New York Correspondence in the Detroit News.

One morning little four-year-old Elwood was in the berry patch with his father.

"Elwood," said his father, "I'll bet you a penny that I can pick a quart of berries quicker than you can."

In a few minutes Elwood was quite encouraged to find that he had finished his quart first.

"Well, Elwood, do you want to bet a penny on another quart?"

"No," replied the businesslike son, "let's bet a nickel this time."

No Returns.

"He used to give thousands to his party's campaign chest. Now he thinks he's done his duty if he hands over $50."

"He ran for office and got 200 votes out of a total of 25,000 counted. A man in his position is apt to think a contribution to his party is a poor investment."

Only those who have no worries can afford to look worried.

SUNDAY SERVICES:

Sunday School 9:45
Morning Service 11:00
Epworth League 7:00
Evening Service 7:45

Last Sunday morning the great truth was emphasized that the only task we have is that of saving souls. The whole creation, with its billions of worlds, centers in this thing—the salvation of souls. The real objective of all history is just the salvation of souls. All the immeasurable care and effort of God in the world is for saving souls. No sacrifice is too great for God Himself, to make for the salvation of souls. He will see everything else built up or thrown down for this thing—the salvation of souls. He has set us to this task—and no other. This is the only task any man ever had. It is ours to undertake nothing but what helps toward the salvation of souls. Everything which does not make for the salvation of souls must go. We must forget everything else and put away everything else, and sacrifice everything else. This is the call of God to us: Save souls at any cost.

At a meeting of the members of the church and others Sunday afternoon, committees for the revival were elected on publicity, entertainment, individual work, Cottage Prayer meetings and finance. A number of prayer lists were handed in. Twelve lists are now in hand, containing in all, the names of about seventy persons, every one of whom is now being prayed for definitely by at least two persons. Some of those on the lists are being prayed for by three or four persons.

Nothing is all the plans for the revival is more vital than the training of the Christians for efficiency in the individual work of winning souls to Christ. At seven o'clock each Wednesday evening this month this training will be given and everyone who desires to help in saving souls is urged to put aside everything else possible and be present. This is vital.

All prayer lists not yet in should be made out right away, each list to contain not less than five names. Every Christian should have such a list. Keep a copy and hand a copy to the pastor not later than next Sunday.

The specialized type of Sunday evening service is winning its way rapidly. Increased attendance and enthusiastic commendation are the sure evidences of high appreciation. The solo by Mrs. Louise Hillebrand Smart last Sunday night was received with genuine enthusiasm, and the duet by Mrs. Hughes and Mr. McGee carried its message with true effectiveness to all hearts. Next Sunday evening's program will be somewhat more elaborate than usual. It will be worth the while of all to be present. Remember the hour is 7:00.

The Methodists will be present at the Community Mass Meeting called at the High School auditorium this Sunday at 3:00 p. m., under proclamation of President Harding, called by the Mayor, for the purpose of doing our share to save the lives of a million and a quarter of people facing death in the Smyrna region.

Everybody is buying things at the bazaar in the church basement this afternoon and everybody and all his family will be there for chicken pie dinner this evening, beginning at five. Remember, the big revival begins Dec. 31, and runs three weeks.

"How many strokes have I taken, caddy?" asked the golfer on the links in Scotland.
"I dinna ken, sorr," answered the boy.

USING COMMON SENSE

If the merchants in Antioch advertised in the newspapers of some distant big city the residents of that place could save through trading, in person or by mail, in Antioch you would say it was not good sense. You would consider that these out-of-town shoppers would have to spend money and time in making the trip; or would buy "blind" if they ordered by mail. At that, these shoppers probably could buy cheaper from our merchants whose costs of doing business are smaller. And yet it is no more foolish than for the people of Antioch to believe that they can buy cheaper by going to the expense of a trip, or buying by mail goods which they have never seen.

Leadership to Assert Itself Cooperation, Under Careful Guardianship, Spells Prosperity

What one thing won the war?

It was leadership. We in this country are not willing to admit that the weight of our army and navy did not play a large part in bringing hostilities to a close; but without the unified command we might be fighting yet.

Leadership was what won for the allies in their fight to make the world "safe for democracy." In all the world, throughout all history, there never was a bigger job than this, and the leadership of General Foch finished it.

But what has this to do with our home town? you ask.

We'll show you in just a minute. Leadership is Essential.

What mobilized all America so that it was able to put the weight of all its 110,000,000 people, of all its industries, of all its wealth and of all its natural resources behind the blow we struck for humanity?

Leadership again. What this country did in providing the world with a merchant marine, is a case in point. If we pull in opposite directions we, the community, will suffer. China has 400,000,000 men, each one of whom can outwork an American. Russia has a large population, and great natural wealth, yet neither China nor Russia are prosperous. They lack real leadership.

Must Sustain Leaders.

Lake Villa must sustain its leaders if they are to guide the way during reconstruction times. When we give them the largest measure of support, then we can hold them accountable for the progress of the community. We know that they are true leaders, because we had experience with their kind of leadership because it is useful. For we have seen that whatever prosperity comes to this city as a result of their effort is shared by you and me and every single individual in the community.

This is democracy in its highest form.

With the merchants of Lake Villa there is no inducement in running up a record of sales this month compared with last month, or with last year. If that were their aim, they would be unworthy of the confidence placed in them by the people of this community. Their purpose is to make Lake Villa strong and prosperous, and the realization of this purpose you benefit as much as they. Your wants, and those of your family, must be supplied, whether you buy here or elsewhere. If you buy elsewhere, and your neighbor buys elsewhere, the movement of money—which constitutes the life of our local business system—will be away from Lake Villa. Home trade will suffer, merchants will have to go out of business, stores will be taxes will go up on your property if schools, roads and other improvements are to be maintained at the present standard.

HOW TO BOOST

The merchants of Lake Villa are here to stay. They chose to locate here because they believe in Lake Villa. They are not interested in a quick "clean-up", in running up sales records; but to grow steadily with the growth of the town. Nothing can contribute to the growth of any place like a strong mercantile backing. Nothing is asked of the merchants of Lake Villa that they are not glad to give of freely. You can help them to help the town—you can help yourself by trading at home. And the best of it is, when you keep your money at home.

"Anything To Wear" Motto of Russian Boys Who Face Death from Lack of Clothes

"Anything to wear" will be the motto of these three Russian boys during the coming winter months. Their condition is typical of that of millions of little Russian children, most of whom have come through the summer without shoes and seldom with more than two garments. And they face the prospect, ac- cording to reports which field work- ers of the American Relief Admin- istration have made to Herbert Hoover, head of the organization— of being unable to go out doors to the A. R. A. kitchens which have fed them warm meals for a year or more. As fuel is almost impos- sible to get, most of the homes will be homeless, adding to the peril tho children face, say the reports. For if they try to go out in this scanty clothing they will be exposed to ill- ness and death from the elements.

The Russian winter is as severe as that of the northernmost United States and Canada, and this has made the problem doubly pressing, for the Russian markets have little clothing available, and the supply that is for sale is held at prices far above the reach of the average workman. Overcoats cost more than a year's salary. Some of the organizations allied with the Amer- ican Relief Administration have sent clothing for distribution in Russia, but these contributions, big as they are, have been "only a drop in the bucket."

To overcome these conditions, the American Relief Administration has initiated a Clothing Remittance system operating in every way like the now famous Hoover Food Re- mittance. The Clothing Remittance costs $20, and each clothing package contains sufficient material for a suit or dress and four suits of underwear for man or woman or two children. The items include 4 2-3 yards of 56-inch 20-ounce dark blue wool cloth; 4 yards of 36- inch black cotton lining; 8 yards of 27-inch flannel; 16 yards of un- bleached muslin; and buttons and thread to make up the garments. When the money is received at A. R. A. headquarters, 42 Broadway, New York, delivery of packages purchased without designated con- cessions, will be distributed among the most needy cases, many of which are beyond description.

Deliveries of clothing packages is undertaken to any given address in Russia. The sender receives a direct receipt from the Russian who gets the clothing.

Words of Cheer and Comfort

If wife, mother or daughter is ill and you are obliged to be absent, what a comfort it is to talk home every evening by long distance telephone! Your own anxiety is relieved and your loved ones are cheered by the sound of your voice.

"Station-to-station" long distance service, developed recently by the Bell System, meets situations of this kind exactly. Just call your home by number and tell the oper- ator you will talk to any one who answers.

When the call is answered, the "station- to-station" rate, which is about twenty percent lower than the "person-to-person" rate, applies. You can then talk to all the members of your family, one after another, on the one call, if you wish.

Evening rates on "station-to-station" calls, which are about one-half the day rate, become effective at 8:30 p. m. After midnight the night rate, about one-fourth the day rate, applies.

Church School 9:45 a.m.
Morning Prayer 11:00 a.m.
Holy Eucharist 11:00 a.m.
(Third Sunday of Month)

Last Sunday, the Second Sunday in Advent, all the services were as usual. Church school at 9:45, and at that time the Christmas Carols were practiced by the scholars. They were played by Miss Dorothy Roschlein. At Morning Prayer in place of a sermon Mr. Brock read the Pastoral Letter of the House of Bishops. This letter is issued after every General Convention of the Church, and it was an outline of the conditions of the times, and the problems that are up to the Church at the present time.

Next Sunday, Church School and Morning Prayer as usual, and the Carols will be practiced again in the session of the Church School. It has been decided that the Church School will hold its regular Christmas Party on Saturday evening, Dec. 23, in the Guild hall. At that time the Carols will be sung, and the presents given out by Santa Claus as in former years. This arrangement will permit those who desire to attend the Community Christmas tree on Sunday evening.

If a priest can be procured, the Christmas Services will be held on Sunday, Dec. 24, instead of on Christmas Day itself. The Service will be Holy Communion, and every confirmed member of the Episcopal Church is expected to receive the Blessed Sacrament at Christmas time. This is the minimum of his duties. Everyone who is going to receive the Sacrament should make a careful preparation, and if he has anything that troubles him, he should come to some priest of the Church with it. We expect 32 communions made at Christmas time, as that is the number of communicants we have. Let no one fail to have Christ born in his heart as he receives the Sacrament at Christmas time. The Christmas Offerings were devoted to current expenses and rectory fund. All who are pledgees of St. Ignatius' Church are reminded that the year is almost ended and all back pledges should be brought up to date as we want to start the New Year right.

More definite announcements concerning the Christmas Services be given next week.

SUNDAY SERVICES:

Sunday School
Morning Service
Young People's meeting
Evening Service

Everybody praying earnestly every day for the great revival meeting, beginning Dec. 31. Word comes from Henderson, Mich., where our evangelist, Dr. Ludgate, is now in a campaign, telling of great crowds and spiritual victories. More prayer lists are being handed in. Let all Christians write out a list of at least five names, keeping one copy and handing one copy to the pastor. Pray every day for all on your prayer list. The sooner the prayer lists get in the better.

The Sunday evening special services are becoming more highly popular each week. The music by the choir last Sunday evening could hardly be over praised. The duet by the Misses Spangard and Van Duzer was especially rich in harmony. The interpretation of "Paradise and the Port" was received with fine appreciation. Next Sunday evening will bring another program which all should hear.

The Sunday morning service was finished with spiritual intensity and every heart felt the insistent urge of the Spirit of God to the great task of interceding in pulsant prayer for the lost people of the community. This intercessory prayer was shown to be the highest type of activity known to human life.

BETTER PRICE FOR REACTORS

A check on the reacting cattle sold on the Buffalo market shows that the efforts of the packers and stockyards administration and the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture have been securing better treatment for persons who have cattle of this class to sell. Records from June 1 to September 23 show that on a total of 542 head of tuberculosis cattle the gross price paid per head was $22.17, less expenses of $3.84, making a net price of $18.33 per head. In the past, records had been kept on 4,500 head and the average price paid was only $14.30. Few buyers are now taking advantage of the farmer who is trying to clean up his herd. Many of them find that they can afford to pay as much for reactors that are not condemned as unfit for food as they can pay for untested cattle of the same kind and quality.

GREAT ROAD DEVELOPMENT IN WYOMING DURING 7 YEARS

The last seven years have been a period of great road development in the State of Wyoming, according to figures collected by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. From 1914 to 1921 the total road mileage increased from 14,797 to 46,328 miles. This is in strong contrast to the majority of states, which have made great progress in road improvement, but with out any appreciable change in total mileage.

During the seven-year period the mileage of improved road has increased from 1,724 miles to 3,867 miles. The mileage of road is classified as follows:

|----------------------|--------------|
| Unimproved | 39,373 Miles |
| Graded and drained | 6,712 Miles |
| Gravel, chert, shale | 413 Miles |
| Hard surfaced | 27 Miles |

In the state there is a total of 613 highway bridges. An analysis of the figures collected by the bureau shows that there is one-half mile of road per square mile of area; that the annual road revenue is $55.32 per square mile, $116.25 per square mile.

mile of road, and $27.82 per capita.

In 1921 the total road revenue, including Federal-aid funds, amounted to approximately $5,408,000, and expenditures $4,725,000. During the year 1,673 miles of improved road were completed in the state and considerable maintenance work done.

That Federal aid is playing a considerable part in road advancement in this state is shown by the fact that on August 31, 1921 miles of Federal-aid road had been completed, 421 miles were either under construction or approved for construction, and nearly $800,000 was available for new projects.

The State system of over 3,000 miles of road to be built with Federal aid and which will form a part of the Federal-aid highway system will be definitely settled upon within a short time.

Wonderful Stock Raising Country

Vast stretches of undeveloped fertile agricultural land of the highest productivity await the settler to Western Canada. The land possesses the same quality of soil as have carried off the world's premier honors so many times in the past two years.

Native Grasses are Rich and Abundant

Cattle fatten upon them without any grain being fed. Limited capital on high-priced lands is not a success, neither can the tenant burdened with high rents hope to succeed. The place to overcome these is in Western Canada where land is cheap where a home may be made at low cost, and where dairying, mixed farming and stock raising give an assured profit.

Land may be purchased from the Railway Companies or from responsible land companies or from private owners. Free homestead of 160 acres each are to be had in the more remote districts.

HARDING'S MESSAGE TAKES FIRM STAND FOR PROHIBITION

MANY OTHER PROBLEMS ARE MENTIONED BY PRESIDENT.

AGRICULTURAL RELIEF IS GIVEN FOREMOST PLACE

Hits at Strikes Which He Says Threaten the Welfare of the People and Menace Public Safety—To Call Conference of Governors on the Prohibition Issue.

Washington, Dec. 8.—President Harding appeared before congress with his annual message on the state of the Union. The following is a partial text of what he said:

"There never again will be precisely the old order; indeed, I know of no one who thinks it to be desirable. For out of the old order came the war itself, and the new order, established and made secure, never will permit its recurrence."

"It is no figure of speech to say we have come to the test of our civilization. The world has been passing—is today passing—through a great crisis. The conduct of war itself is not more difficult than the solution of the problems which necessarily follow."

Considers Home Problems.
"I am not speaking at this moment of the problem in its wider aspects of world rehabilitation or of international relationships. The reference is to our own social, financial and economic problems at home. These things are not to be considered solely as problems apart from all international relationship, but every nation must be able to carry on for itself, else its international relationship will have scant importance."

"Doubtless our own people have emerged from the World-war tumult less impaired than most belligerent powers; probably we have made larger progress toward reconstruction. Had we escaped the coal and railway strikes, which had no excuse for their beginning, and less justification for their delayed settlement, we should have done infinitely better. But labor was insistent on holding to the war heights, and heedless forces of reaction sought the prewar levels, and both were wrong."

"The railway strike accentuated the difficulty of the American farmer. The first distress of readjustment came to the farmer, and it will not be a readjustment fit to abide until he is relieved. The distress brought to the farmer does not affect him alone. Agricultural ill fortune is a national ill fortune."

Saved From Disaster.
This congress already has taken cognizance of the misfortune which precipitate delation brought to American agriculture. Your measures of relief and the reduction of the federal reserve discount rate undoubtedly saved the country from widespread disaster. The very proof of helpfulness already given is the strongest argument for the permanent establishment of widened credits, heretofore temporarily extended through the war finance corporation."

"The farm loan bureau, which already has proved its usefulness through the federal land banks, may well have its powers enlarged to provide ample farm production credits as well as enlarged land credits."

"In the last half of the year now closing the railways, broken in carrying capacity because of motive power and rolling stock out of order, though insistently declaring to the contrary, embargoed the farmer's shipments, or denied him cars when fortunate markets were calling."

Rail Problem Vital.
"I know of no problem exceeding in importance this one of transportation. We have built 40 per cent of the world's railroad mileage, and yet find it inadequate to our present requirements. When we contemplate the inadequacy of today, it is easy to believe that the next few decades will witness the paralysis of our transportation-using social scheme, or a complete reorganization on some new basis."

"Manifestly, we have need to begin on plans to co-ordinate all transportation facilities. We should more effectively connect up our rail lines with our carriers by sea. We ought to reap some benefit from the hundreds of millions expended on inland waterways, providing our capacity to utilize as well as expend. We ought to turn the motortruck into a railway feeder and distributor instead of a destroying competitor."

"This transportation problem cannot be waved aside. The demand for lowered costs on farm products and basic materials cannot be ignored. Rates horizontally increased to meet increased wage outlays during the war inflation are not easily reduced. When Dry Yuletide for New York.

New York.—In preparation for the most drastic enforcement of the state prohibition law in white light cabarets, restaurants and dance halls around the holiday season, order to "dry up Broadway" were received by commanders of the two tendorship police stations with instructions that every patroness would be held accountable for hip-pocket violations as well.

Federal authorities also have planned an active campaign in co-operation with the police, it was said.

some very moderate wage reductions were effected last summer there was a 5 per cent horizontal reduction in rates. I sought at that time, in a very informal way, to have the railway managers to go before the interstate commerce commission and agree to a heavier reduction on farm products and leave unchanged the freight tariffs which a very large portion of the traffic was able to bear. Neither the managers nor the commission saw fit to adopt the suggestion. Railways are not expected to render the most essential service in our social organization without a fair return on capital invested, but the government has gone so far in the regulation of rates and rules of operation that it has the responsibility of pointing the way to the reduced freight costs so essential to our national welfare. Government operation does not afford the cure."

"The labor board itself is not so constituted as best to serve the public interest. With six partisan members on a board of nine, three partisans nominated by the employees and three by the railway managers, it is inevitable that the partisan viewpoint is maintained throughout hearings and in decisions handed down."

Offers New Plan.
"The substitution of a labor division in the interstate commerce commission made up from its membership to hear and decide disputes relating to wages and working conditions which have failed of adjustment by proper committees created by the railways and their employees, offers a more effective plan."

"This suggested substitution will involve a necessary increase in the membership of the commission, probably four, to constitute the labor division. If the suggestion appeals to the congress, it will be well to specify that the labor division shall be constituted of representatives of the four rate-making territories, thereby assuring a tribunal conversant with the conditions which obtain in the different rate-making sections of the country."

Most Demoralizing Factor.
"Constitutional prohibition has been adopted by the nation. It is the supreme law of the land. In plain speaking, there are conditions relating to its enforcement which savor of nation-wide scandal. It is the most demoralizing factor in our public life."

"Most of our people assumed that the adoption of the eighteenth amendment meant the elimination of the question from our politics. On the contrary, it has been so intensified as an issue that many voters are disposed to make all political decisions with reference to this single question. It is distracting the public mind and prejudicing the judgment of the electorate."

"The day is unlikely to come when the eighteenth amendment will be repealed. The fact may as well be recognized and our course adapted accordingly. If the statutory provisions for its enforcement are contrary to deliberate public opinion, which I do not believe, the rigorous and literal enforcement will concentrate public attention on any requisite modification."

"Such a course conforms with the law and saves the humiliation of our people before the world, and challenges the destructive forces engaged in widespread violation, official corruption, and individual demoralization."

Plans Governors' Meet.
"The eighteenth amendment involves the concurrent authority of state and federal governments for the enforcement of the policy it defines. A certain lack of definiteness, through division of responsibility is thus introduced. In order to bring about a full understanding of duties and responsibilities, as thus distributed, I purpose to invite the governors of the states and territories, at an early opportunity, to a conference with the federal executive authority. Out of the full and free considerations which will thus be possible, it is confidently believed will emerge a more adequate comprehension of the whole problem, and definite policies of national and state co-operation in administering the laws."

"There are pending bills for the registration of the alien who has come to our shores. I wish the passage of such an act might be expedited. Before enlarging the immigration quota, we had better provide registration for aliens, now here or enroute, pressing for admission, and establish our examination boards abroad, to make sure of desirables only."

Wants to Be Prepared.
"The proposed survey of a plan to draft all the resources of the republic, human and material, for national defense may well have your approval. I commend such a program in case of future war, in the inaugural address of March 4, 1921, and every experience in the adjustment and liquidation of war claims and the settlement of war obligations persuades me we ought to be prepared for such universal call to armed defense."

Rural Doctors Serve Most Patients.
The average country doctor in Ohio serves twice as many patients as does his city colleague, an investigation by the Ohio State university has revealed. It is stated that in the remote country districts there are plenty of country doctors to take care of patients, but that, in the regions near a larger city the physician often forsakes his rural practice for the broader opportunities of the city. In the 15 Ohio counties that have the largest urban population, every rural doctor now has to take care of an average of 1,512 persons. In the 15 counties of the state which are most thoroughly rural there is one physician for every 887 persons.

NEW VARIETY TAKING PLACE OF DISEASE-AFFECTED CANE

Five years ago the sugar plantations of Porto Rico were threatened with disaster because of the sudden appearance and the rapid spread of a serious disease known as yellow stripe, or mosaic disease, and the planters appealed to the United States department of agriculture for help.

Investigators sent to the island by the bureau of plant industry to cooperate with the insular and federal experiment stations there soon discovered that a variety of cane known as Kavaigre then being grown only in experimental plants, seemed to be immune to the disease, which was attacking practically every other variety grown in Porto Rico.

Kavaigre cane is grown commercially in the Argentine, and through the effective cooperation of the director of the Tucuman agricultural experiment station the department made arrangements for an immediate shipment of 5 tons of seed cane of that variety to Porto Rico. The cane was packed in charcoal in barrels and shipped about the middle of July, 1919, arriving on the island early in September. This is probably the longest haul of seed cane in large quantity ever made.

The immune cane was grown by the federal and insular experiment stations for the purpose of increasing the quantity of seed cane. Later this was distributed to each of the central on the island, and a recent report shows that it has been giving very good results. One of the stations had 500 acres of Kavaigre this year and is planning to increase to 1,000 acres next year. Another has 200 acres in one valley and considerable plantings in other districts. About half of the cane acreage in this locality is now out of cane because of the mosaic disease and only the new variety will be planted hereafter.

distant when the Marketing Company will not only be able to pay the farmer in the country the same price that the other dealers are paying, but unquestionably is going to develop the business to a point that the Marketing Company will be able to pay more money for the milk that it buys than the dealers are paying.

Suppose, for instance, that this business should grow to a point that the Marketing Company was doing even 5 percent of the bottle milk business of the city by this method. In round figures, about 1,000,000 quarts of milk per day in Chicago are supposed to be sold in bottles. Suppose the Marketing Company is able to develop this to a point that 5 percent of the business is handled by the Marketing Company in this way, or 50,000 quarts a day, at 5 cents a quart for handling it. This would give the Marketing Company $2,500 a day to pay the freight, bottle and deliver this milk. These figures speak for themselves and unquestionably mean that the further development of this store business means not only more milk used in the city but a better price to the farmer.

Dealers Fear Company.

When this business first started, the dealers paid little attention to it, but as it has steadily grown the dealers suddenly awakened to the danger of it and let out a piercing squawk, for all too plainly they realized that before many moons the bottle milk business of the Marketing Company, if it keeps up its present rate of growth, is surely going to place the company in a position to be a dangerous factor in this market; that the Company will not only be able to pay the full price that the dealers are paying but unquestionably a better price. Ah! there's the rub. Every good thing has to have its start, every successful enterprise has to go through the trying period of making a start. Consequently, in the start off of this business, as long as the dealers knew that the overhead plant expense of handling and delivering a small volume prevented the company from being able to pay as much for milk as the dealers were paying, they, the dealers, reacted happily.

Pelson Squad in Action.

However, the constant growth of this business is giving the dealers some uneasy moments, feeling that they have already let it go too far, and falling to kill it at this end, they are now trying other tactics. Consequently, the dealers squawk and the pelson squad welded into action on the double quick. Why?

Dear reader, this is all there is to this great hubbub and noise about 10-cent milk. Nothing so very bad about it after all, is there?

Along with the squawk about 10-cent milk goes those other dismal tales about the price slashing, etc., that the Marketing Company is doing in the price of wholesale milk in Chicago to the restaurants, hotels, etc., this latter story is just as much of a fake, just as has been all this bosh about 10-cent milk.

The story of what the Marketing Company has done in securing steady wholesale business in the loop dis-

ERSKINE DALE—PIONEER

By JOHN FOX, Jr.

Copyrighted by Charles Scribner's Sons

CHAPTER XIII—Continued.

"My son spoke words of truth," he proclaimed sonorously. "He warned us against the king over the waters and told us to make friends with the Americans. We did not heed his words, and so he brought the great chief of the Long Knives, who stood without fear among warriors more numerous than leaves and spoke the same words to all. We are friends of the Long Knives. My son is the true prophet. Bring out the false one and Crooked Lightning and Black Wolf, whose life my son saved though the two were enemies. My son shall do with them as he pleases."

Many young braves sprang willingly forward and the three were hailed before Erskine. Old Kahloo waved his hand toward them and sat down. Erskine rose and fixed his eyes sternly
on the cowering prophet:

"He shall go forth from the village and shall never return. For his words work mischief, he does foolish things,
and his drumming frightens the game.
He is a false prophet and he must go."
He turned to Crooked Lightning:

"The Indians have made peace with the Long Knives and White Arrow
would make peace with any Indian, though an enemy. Crooked Lightning shall go or stay, as he pleases. Black Wolf shall stay, for the tribe will need him as a hunter, and a warrior against the English foes of the Long Knives.
White Arrow does not ask another to spare an enemy's life and then take it away himself."

The braves grunted approval. Black Wolf and Crooked Lightning averted their faces and the prophet shambled uneasily away. Agala old Kahloo proclaimed sonorously, "It is well!" and went back with Erskine to his tent.
There he sank wearily on a buffalo-skin and pleaded with the boy to stay with them as chief in his stead.
He was very old, and now that peace was made with the Long Knives he was willing to die. If Erskine would but give his promise, he would never rise again from where he lay.

Erskine shook his head and the old man sorrowfully turned his face.
And yet Erskine lingered on and on in the village. Of the white woman he had learned little other than that she had been bought from another tribe and adopted by old Kahloo; but it was plain that since the threatened burning of her, she had been held in high respect by the whole tribe. He began to wonder about her and whether she might not wish to go back to her own people. He had never talked with her, but he never moved about the camp that he did not feel her eyes upon him. And Early Morn's big soft eyes, too, never seemed to leave him. She brought him food, she sat at the door of his tent, she followed him about the village and bore herself openly as his slave. At last old Kahloo, who would not give up his great hope, pleaded with him to marry her, and while he was talking the girl stood at the door of the tent and interrupted them. Her mother's eyes were growing dim, she said. Her mother wanted to talk with White Arrow and look upon his face
before her slight should altogether pass. Nor could Erskine know that the white woman wanted to look into the eyes of the man she hoped would become her daughter's husband, but Kahloo did, and he bade Erskine go.
His foster mother, coming upon the scene, scowled, but Erskine rose and went to the white woman's tent. She sat just inside the opening, with a blanket across the lower half of her face, nor did she look at him. Instead she pined him with questions, and drew from him every detail of his life as far back as he could remember. Poor soul, it was the first opportunity for many years that she had had to talk with any white person who had been in the eastern world, and freely and frankly he held nothing back.

At the while the girl had crouched near, looking at Erskine with doglike eyes, and when he rose to go the woman dropped the blanket from her face and got to her feet. Shyly she lifted her hands, took his face between them, bent close, and studied
it searchingly:

"What is your name?"
"Erskine Dale."

Without a word she turned back into her tent.

At dusk Erskine stood by the river's brim, with his eyes lifted to a rising moon and his thoughts with Barbara on the bank of the James.
Behind him he heard a rustle and turning, he saw the girl, her breast throbbing and her eyes burning with a light he had never seen before.

"Black Wolf will kill you," she whispered. "Black Wolf wants Early Morn and he knows that Early Morn wants White Arrow." Erskine put both hands on her shoulders and looked down into her eyes. She trembled, and when his arms went about her she surged closer to him and the touch of her warm, supple body went through him like fire. And then with a triumphant smile she sprang back.

"Black Wolf will see," she whispered, and fled. Erskine sank to the ground, with his head in his hands.

The girl ran back to her tent, and the mother, peering at the flushed face and shining eyes, clove to the truth. She said nothing, but when the girl was asleep and faintly snail-ing, the white woman sat staring out into the moonlit woods, softly heating her breast.

CHAPTER XIV.

Erskine had given Black Wolf his life, and the young brave had accepted the debt and fretted under it sorely. And when Erskine had begun to show some heed to Early Morn a fierce jealousy seized the savage, and his old hatred was reborn a thousandfold
more strong—and that, too, Erskine now knew. Meat ran low and a hunting party went abroad. Game was scarce and only after the second day was there a kill. Erskine had slighted
a huge buck, had fired quickly and at close range. Wounded, the buck had charged, Erskine's knife was twisted in his belt, and the buck was upon him before he could get it out.
He tried to dart for a tree, stumbled,
turned, and caught the infuriated beast by the horns. He uttered no cry, but the angry bellow of the slug reached the ears of Black Wolf through the woods, and he darted toward the sound. And he came none too soon. Erskine heard the crack of a rifle, the stag toppled over, and he saw Black Wolf standing over him with a curiously triumphant look on his saturnine face. In Erskine, when he rose, the white man was premonitant, and he thrust out his hand, but Black Wolf ignored it.

"White Arrow gave Black Wolf his life. The debt is paid."

Erskine looked at his enemy, nodded, and the two bore the stag away.
Instantly a marked change was plain in Black Wolf. He told the story of the fight with the buck to all. Boldly he threw off the mantle

Erskine Put Both Hands on Her Shoulders and Looked Down into Her Eyes.

of shame, stalked haughtily through the village, and went back to open enmity with Erskine. At dusk a day or two later, when he was coming down the path from the white woman's wigwam, Black Wolf confronted him, scowling.

"Early Morn shall belong to Black Wolf," he said insolently. Erskine met his baleful, half-drunken eyes soberly.

"We will leave that to Early Morn," he said coolly, and then thundered suddenly:

"Out of my way!"

Black Wolf hesitated and gave way,
but over thereafter Erskine was on guard.

In the white woman, too, Erskine
now saw a change. Once she had encouraged him to stay with the Indians; now she lost no opportunity to urge against it. She had heard that Hamilton would try to rescue Villaines, that he was forming a great force with which to march south,
sweep through Kentucky, batter down
the wooden forts, and force the Kentuckians behind the great mountain wall. Erskine would be needed by the whites, who would never understand or trust him if he should stay with the Indians. All this she spoke one day when Erskine came to her tent to talk. Her face had blanched, she had argued passionately that he must go, and Erskine was sorely puzzled. The girl, too, had grown rebellious and disobedient, for the change
in her mother was plain also to her, and she could not understand. Moreover Erskine's stubbornness grew, and he began to flame within at the stalking insolence of Black Wolf, who flipped through the shadows of day and the dusk to spy on the two where-ever they came together. And one day when the sun was midway, and in the open of the village, the clash came. Black Wolf darted forth from his wigwam, his eyes bloodshot with rage and drink, and his hunting knife

in his hand. A cry from Early Morn warned Erskine and he wheeled. As Black Wolf made a vicious slash at him he sprang aside, and with his first caught the savage in the jaw.
Black Wolf fell heavily and Erskine was upon him with his own knife at his enemy's throat.

"Stop them!" old Kahloo cried
sternly, but it was the terrified shriek
of the white woman that stayed Er-skine's hand. Two young braves disarmed the fallen Indian, and Kahloo looked longingly at his adopted son.

"Turn him loose!" Erskine scorned.
"I have no fear of him. He is a woman and drunk, but next time I shall kill him."

The white woman had run down, caught Early Morn, and was leading her back to her tent. From inside presently came low, passionate pleading from the woman and an occasional sob from the girl. And when an hour later, at dusk, Erskine turned upward toward the tent, the girl gave a horrified cry, flashed from the tent, and darted for the high cliff over the river.

"Catch her!" cried the mother.
"Quick!" Erskine fled after her, overtook her with her hands upraised for the plunge on the very edge of the cliff, and half carried her, struggling and sobbing, back to the tent. Within the girl dropped in a weeping heap, and with her face covered, and the woman turned to Erskine, agonized.

"I told her," she whispered, "and she was going to kill herself. You are my son."

Still sleepless at dawn, the boy rode firedly into the woods. At sunset he came in, gaunt with brooding and hunger. His foster mother brought him food, but he would not touch it. The Indian woman stared at him with keen suspicion, and presently old Kahloo, passing slowly, bent on him the same look, but asked no question. Erskine gave no heed to either, but his mother, watching from her wigwam, understood and grew fearful. Quickly she stepped outside and called him, and he rose and went to her bewildered;
she was smiling.

"They are watching," she said, and Erskine, too, understood, and kept his back toward the watchers.

"I have decided," he said. "You and she must leave here and go with me."

His mother pretended much displeasure. "She will not leave, and I will not leave her"—her lips trembled
—"and I would have gone long ago but—"

"I understand," interrupted Erskine,
"but you will go now with your son."
The poor woman had to scowl.

"No, and you must not tell them.
They will never let me go, and they will use me to keep you here. You must go at once. She will never leave this tent as long as you are here, and if you stay she will die, or kill herself. Some day—"

She turned abruptly and went back into her tent.
Erskine wheeled and went to old Kahloo.

"You want Early Morn?" asked the old man. "You shall have her."

"No," said the boy. "I am going back to the big chief."

"You are my son and I am old and weak."

"I am a soldier and must obey the big chief's commands, as must you."

"I shall live," said the old man
wearily, "until you come again."

Erskine nodded and went for his horse. Black Wolf watched him with malignant satisfaction, but said nothing—nor did Crooked Lightning. Erskine turned once as he rode away.
His mother was standing outside her wigwam. Mournfully she waved her hand. Behind her and within the tent he could see Early Morn with both hands at her breast.

CHAPTER XV

Dawned 1781.
The war was coming into Virginia at last. Virginia falling would thrust a great wedge through the center of the confederacy, feed the British armies and end the fight. Cornwallis was to drive the wedge, and never had the opening seemed easier. Virginia was drained of her fighting men, and south of the mountains was protected only by a militia, for the most part, of old men and boys. North and south men ran despair. The soldiers had no pay, little food, and only old worn-out contaminated blankets, and one blanket between three men and lay wind.
Even the great Washington was near despair, and in foreign help his sole hope lay. Already the traitor, Arnold, had taken Richmond, burned warehouses, and returned, but little harassed, to Portsmouth.
Cornwallis was coming on. Tarle-
ton's white rangers were believing the land, and it was at this time that Erskine Dale once more rode firedly
to the river James.

Big City Buying, Instead of Home Trading, Helps Big City Merchants' Rentals

"Twenty-nine steps from the high-rent district."

This identical slogan is well known to readers of the display advertisements in the papers published in a certain large city in this country. In substance it is well known to the readers of the advertisements in any large city, because the closer a store is to the center of congestion in that city the greater is its overhead.

Taken inversely, it is also true that as the site is at some distance from that center, the lower is its overhead, others things being equal.

The rule works out with such exactness that the rise or fall in this overhead can be calculated with every pace of that distance, as the advertiser mentioned in the foregoing has demonstrated.

Where many persons are crowded together, the cost of living is forced up as a result. The greater the congestion, the higher the cost. To relieve this congestion and make it possible for the man with a moderate income to live in comfort and to provide for his family adequately, there is a centrifugal movement in every large city from the downtown section to the suburbs. On a larger scale, but for the same end, there is the movement from city to country—"back to the farm," or to the small town.

Damage is Averted.
The balance is restored by the time the movement has continued for some time from the big city to, say Antioch. It is like a lightning rod that draws from the clouds the charge of high voltage and so keeps the storm clouds from storing up a force that might hurl a bolt earthward and wreak great destruction.

It costs a huge sum to run a store on a desirable downtown corner in a large city, and the cost for the extra charge is assessed upon every person buying goods there. The site on which the famous Flatiron building in New York is located is a good example of this. Everybody wants that corner, and the competition for its possession has raised the price to a fabulous sum. In the same way many a store site in a big city is inflated in price until it is assessed several times its real value, but taxes must be paid on it, inflated value and all. Every dollar's worth of goods sold must pay tribute toward these taxes.

And you—people of Antioch—are helping to pay this tribute every time you buy at such a store.

But higher taxes aren't all that your money is wasted for. There is the higher rent. The owner of the property, who is assessed this high tax, has more money invested than the man in the next block further up town, and he wants his interest back on that investment. He screws up the rent in a direct ratio.

Thickly Built District.
The district is thickly built up. Story upon story are added to each building until they constitute a wilderness of skyscrapers. The fire hazard increases with every floor, insurance rates soar with the high cost of everything else. Other items of this sort might be added almost indefinitely, for all of which Antioch shoppers must help to pay when they take their patronage from Antioch merchants—where it belongs—and carry it to the distant city.

All the stores in the city are not like the one described in the foregoing. Some are like the stores in Antioch, where honest prices are charged, where you get 100 percent in value and in service for every cent you spend there. But you don't go to those stores when you go on a shopping expedition to the city, because they are in the outlying sections, where conditions are more like those in your home town.

WHOSE RENT DO YOU PAY?

Are you helping to pay the rent of the big city stores? Are you contributing to the taxes, insurance, interest, employees' wages, and the hundreds of other expenses of the department stores or mail-order houses? Most surely you are if you are buying anything from them. Every dollar's worth of goods sold by such business houses must help pay these expenses. These costs are enormous and must be paid—and if you buy, you pay. Isn't it better economy to buy from the merchants of your own town? You pay less and get more, and your money stays where it will be invested for the good of Antioch.
